Wolverine and Ram Truck Brand Celebrate Labor Day With the Launch of New Boot Collection Collaboration

- Introducing a special-edition USA-built collection supporting the next generation of skilled workers

August 31, 2021, Auburn Hills, Mich. - Wolverine, the 138-year-old boot and clothing brand, and Ram Truck, the brand that is "Built to Serve," have unveiled a one-of-a-kind collaboration in time for Labor Day to celebrate those in the skilled trades and the work ethic that it takes to succeed. The USA-built collection of boots is inspired by the performance and bold details of Ram trucks. For each item pre-ordered, Wolverine and the Ram Truck brand will donate to SkillsUSA, a nonprofit organization focused on supporting the next generation of skilled tradespeople.

"We are proud to partner with Ram Truck, an industry leading brand, to honor essential workers and the excellent career opportunities the skilled trades offer," said Tom Kennedy, global brand president for Wolverine Footwear and Apparel. "Since 2017, Wolverine has donated more than $2 million toward supporting the next generation of skilled workers, and we're excited to be working with another brand who is equally passionate about investing in the future of the American workforce."

For the last four years, Wolverine has worked with a wide range of partners, including mikeroweWORKS Foundation, Old Rip Van Winkle Distillery and Metallica Scholars to recognize the value of American craftsmanship, promote opportunities in the skilled trades and fund scholarships for the next generation of workers. The Wolverine x Ram collaboration expands the impact through continued support of the skilled trades with a $10 donation for every item pre-ordered benefiting SkillsUSA.

The special-edition boot collection is built in the USA and is inspired by the iconic details of Ram trucks:

- Wolverine x Ram Tradesman Safety Toe ($229) – A boot for those ready to get the job done, the Tradesman has hardworking details inspired by the signature truck, available in two colorways
- Wolverine x Ram Rebel Safety Toe ($239) – Built for the bold, the Rebel boot features the signature Rebel Red and details for high performance all day long, available in two colorways

To commence the partnership, the teams have launched a new 60-second video, "Rent We Pay," in partnership with Sheet Metal Arts. The video spans across digital and social media, including Ram Truck's official YouTube, Facebook, Instagram and Twitter channels. Set to a custom song written for the Ram brand, the video honors hardworking Americans in the skilled trades.
