May 1, 2024, Auburn Hills, Mich. - Dodge is rebooting the brand's Dodge Horsepower Locator, just in time to help the Brotherhood of Muscle lock down a 2024 Dodge Durango SRT 392 AlcHEMI Last Call model, now available at select Dodge dealerships.

The 2024 Dodge Durango SRT 392 AlcHEMI, announced earlier this year, is the first in a series of Last Call models that will commemorate the final calendar year of V-8 HEMI® engine production for the Dodge Durango. The Durango SRT 392 AlcHEMI adds premium content, including yellow SRT Brembo brakes, honeycomb-textured dual exterior stripes with yellow accents, black "392" vinyl fender decals with yellow accents, 20-by-10-inch lightweight SRT wheels and much more, available at a U.S. manufacturer's suggested retail price (MSRP) of $89,795, excluding a $1,595 destination fee.

The interactive Dodge Horsepower Locator tool helps customers identify a nearby dealer with their dream Durango Last Call model. Customers will be able to refine searches by vehicle color and zip code radius, and the list of available vehicles will be refreshed weekly as dealer allocation is updated. Dodge Durango SRT 392 AlcHEMI models are allocated to Dodge dealers based on dealer sales performance.

Dealer information and a link to the dealer website is also provided to make reaching out and placing orders easier. Customers can visit the Horsepower Locator to search for dealers with available allocations and order their vehicle.

The Dodge Durango SRT 392 AlcHEMI signifies the final run of 475-horsepower Durango SRT 392 V-8 models, which will end production in July at the close of the 2024 model year. Dodge Durango 2025 model year Last Call special-edition vehicles will celebrate the 5.7L HEMI-powered Durango R/T and the legendary 710-horsepower Dodge Durango SRT Hellcat — the most powerful SUV ever, fueled by the supercharged 6.2-liter HEMI Hellcat V-8 engine — with final production of the Durango R/T and Durango SRT Hellcat set to wrap up by December 31, 2024.

Full details on 2025 model year Dodge Durango Last Call special-edition models will be shared later this year. Dealer allocation information on all Durango "Last Call" models will be available through the Dodge Horsepower Locator.
